SOURCE:

In the period from 15 February to 9 March 1953, six 800-watt transmitter sets were built by the Funkwerk (Sachsenwerk), Radeberg, on order from the Soviet Union and were delivered most probably to Kaliningrad. During the past month eighteen 100-watt senders have been completed for the Volkspolizei. Six pieces of microwave connecting equipment, Type DWV 903, 8 watt power, have been manufactured. There is no change in the production of television sets, voice radio apparatus, and electric motors.
